Critical Path

Explanation

The majority of tasks for the banking system are independent of one another and had little to no difference in expected development time. The tasks with dependencies include transfer on task 6, loan display and implementation on task 8, and foreign currency processing on task 20.

Out of these 3 dependencies, free transfer required more time to develop coordination of multiple accounts, however since we ran into another set of issues, we chose to only one account to the users. Issues such as due to the HTTP request error and unable to connect the backend to frontend.